SECTION 1.1: OUR GUARANTEE

We provide a New School Guarantee for all our New School customers. This agreement guarantees that your book collection will be shipped to your new library on a mutually agreed upon date, or Follett will provide a 15% credit (not to exceed $20,000). We further promise to ship at least 95% of available titles ordered. "Publisher Out of Stock" and "Out of Print" titles do not apply to this guarantee. A typical new library project takes 12 weeks from time an order is received until it is delivered. This guarantee is contingent upon the following milestones being met:

- ✓ Purchase Order/Approved List Received (12 weeks prior to delivery date)
- ✓ Customer Approval of Cataloging and Processing Specifications (6 weeks prior to delivery date)
- ✓ Written Consent, Certificate of Occupancy, or Compliance with State/Local Regulations for Occupancy (2 weeks prior to delivery date)

If these are not met prior to the agreed upon delivery date, our guarantee is no longer applicable.

Follett will not be responsible for delay in meeting its New School Guarantee obligations if such delay is caused by a force majeure event, meaning fire, flood, explosion, war, embargo, pandemic, governmental action, supplier or telecommunications disruption, Act of God, or other cause beyond Follett's control.

This team was specifically put together to work directly with you on your library collection, large order, or classroom project. They handle communicating with you about the needs and requirements for your order, handing off your reviewed and approved order to our service center team for fulfillment, and working with your dedicated Sales Consultant on the collection delivery details.

SECTION 4.0: IMPLEMENTATION OVERVIEW

The steps below provide an overview of Follett's standard New School implementation process, however, Follett is also able to customize this process based on the needs of each individual school. From list creation to order fulfillment and delivery—our team will be there to guide you at every step.

STEP 1: LIBRARY COLLECTION LIST DEVELOPMENT

If your librarian would like assistance with building a library collection for your school library, Follett's Library Curation Team is available to help.

Our Library Curation Team is a team of Masters-degree holding former educators and librarians. Our team has over 40 years of combined experience in selecting titles for our customers. By working collaboratively with Sales team members and their library customers, the Library Curation Team is able to build customized solutions of books and materials for school libraries. To keep up with growing trends and stay informed on school library needs, our team listens to webinars, reads articles and reviews within library journals, attends annual conferences, and most importantly meets with hundreds of publishers throughout the year to preview up-and-coming releases and provide feedback. With this knowledge, the team also takes into careful consideration the copyright date, popularity, reviews, favorite authors, knowledge of the publisher, overall book design, and text features when selecting titles.

If needed, this expert team can build a collection for you book-by-book based on your specific criteria, such as: materials budget, curriculum, state awards and interests, reading programs, teacher requests, Hi-Lo materials, and World Language titles.

The resulting library collection list contains comprehensive data for each title, such as the Dewey number, genre, copyright year, author, annotation, publisher, binding type, review sources, awards, interest and reading levels, price, and number of pages. Your Librarian/Media Specialist will then be able to view the library collection list of titles in a hard copy printout, or electronically via an Excel spreadsheet or Titlewave®.

If you are interested in organizing your library collection by genre, we can help you determine your categories, how you would like the call numbers displayed on your labels, and how you would like genres identified in your library system. We also provide a large selection of genre labels to choose from, which visually identify a book's genre.

In addition, your Librarian/Media Specialist will receive a List Breakdown by Classification with statistics. An example of this breakdown is shown below:

If your Librarian/Media Specialist would like to review, add, or edit titles on the library collection list before the order is placed, Titlewave® offers that ability. When they receive the library collection list electronically through Titlewave®, the list can then be sorted by title, author, or Dewey, making it easy to review and edit individual titles. Titles can also be added using criteria such as publisher sets, keywords, genre, publication date, or Dewey range.

STEP 2: ORDER PREPARATION AND PLACEMENT

To place an order for the library collection, your Librarian/Media Specialist can submit the request by emailing FSSorders@follettlearning.com, through their Titlewave® account, by fax, or by mail. When placing an order, they should make sure to include your contract name and number to ensure the order is processed accurately.

A New School/Large Order (NSLO) Coordinator will be assigned to assist your Librarian/Media Specialist throughout the entire ordering process. They will help them to review the order, verify any processing and cataloging selections, and go over the White Glove Delivery checklist to ensure that the delivery details are accurate. The checklist must be completed in order for Follett to make the delivery arrangements. The Coordinator will also confirm with the Librarian/Media Specialist that the school has received its Certificate of Occupancy. Your Librarian/Media Specialist should also discuss with the NSLO the necessary shelf height parameters for the collection being provided.

STEP 3: REVIEW OF PROCESSING SPECIFICATIONS

After your NSLO Coordinator reviews the processing and cataloging specifications of your order, your Librarian/Media Specialist will be provided with sample books to demonstrate your binding preferences and a sample letter to demonstrate your processing specifications and the Dewey Breakdown. Your Librarian/Media Specialist will review these samples to ensure that we have correctly understood the requirements of your order. During this time, your NSLO Coordinator will also review your delivery requirements to ensure they meet your plans.

Once your Librarian/Media Specialist approves the samples or provides us with any changes we need to make to the processing and cataloging specifications, your Coordinator will complete a second review of your order. After they finish their review, another member of our NSLO Team will then complete an additional review for quality control.

STEP 4: ORDER PROCESSING AND FULFILLMENT

After your order has been reviewed by our NSLO Team, it is released to our service center for processing and fulfillment. Follett's service center is stocked with an immense number of PreK-12 classroom and library products. Our highly skilled team members pick and process every book by hand, ensuring that our customers receive only the best quality materials. Once your order has been processed, your collection will be packed shelf-ready in True Dewey or Genre order depending on your needs.

STEP 5: SHIPPING AND DELIVERY

We ship all New School orders free of charge within the contiguous United States. If you will not be ready to receive your order as scheduled (due to construction or another type of delay), Follett can store your order at our service center at no charge until you are ready. Simply call us when you are ready, and we'll make arrangements to have the order shipped immediately.

During the review of your processing and cataloging specifications, your Coordinator will have established the specific details regarding the delivery of your collection. Our delivery checklist goes over details such as what the best receiving location at your school will be, if the entrance can accommodate a pallet, and which floor of the building your library is located. Your order will then be delivered on the date you specify.

Follett is committed to providing you with superior service. We have partnered with local moving companies to deliver your books on time and in a professional manner

STEP 6: UNPACKING, SHELVING AND CLEAN-UP

Prior to the delivery of your order, your NSLO Coordinator will work with your Librarian/Media Specialist to ensure a shelving plan is identified that results in a smooth delivery and shelving of the collection. Between our shelf markers and our shelf-ready packing, unpacking, and shelving your collection becomes a seamless process—once boxes are opened, books can immediately be shelved without any confusion as to where they belong.

Prior to ship date, we will also send you shelf markers. These shelf markers directly correspond to the numbers on the boxes of your order, so that it is clear which shelf each box belongs to.

As part of our special offer for Corral Hollow Elementary School, Follett will provide free onsite shelving assistance. As an extension of our White Glove delivery service, we will arrange for our team of workers to help you receive your order shipment. They will stage boxes, shelve your collection using the provided shelf markers, and clear all packing debris—resulting in a well-organized, fully functioning library.

LIBRARY BINDING INSTITUTE SPECIFICATIONS

The Library Binding Institute (LBI) has created specifications for pre-bound and reinforced paperback titles. Our FollettBound® bindery works diligently to ensure that our titles meet these specifications. LBI specifications, such as the use of library sewing, squared corners, illustrated covers, superior cover protection, the use of durable and flexible adhesives, and reinforced cloth end sheets are all examples of specifications that are followed when creating FollettBound® books.

For more information on FollettBound® bindings please visit www.titlewave.com/main/follettbound

SECTION 6.0: OUR PROCESSING OPTIONS

SECTION 6.1: CATALOGING AND PROCESSING OPTIONS

With Follett's processing and cataloging options, you can order books and have them processed, barcoded, and shipped to your school in shelf-ready order.

Please use the following links to see Follett's complete cataloging and processing options.

- Standard Book Cataloging and Processing Options: https://follettk12.link/5v5
- Standard A/V Cataloging and Processing Options: https://follettk12.link/hc7

SECTION 6.2: MARC RECORDS

Follett provides full encoding level MARC records for our materials. All access points in all records are fully supported by national level authority records. We have been an independent contributing member of NACO (Name Authority Cooperative Program) since 2010. We have been cataloging according to RDA (Resource Description and Access) since April 2013. Items cataloged before that time may be programmatically enhanced to resemble RDA records.

MARC records are sent directly through your Titlewave® account, which allows you immediate access to your records when your order is shipped.

SECTION 6.3: ACCELERATED READER AND READING COUNTS

We provide Accelerated Reader book titles and AR processing options, which include MARC records with the ATOS value in the 526 tag, AR information labels, or AR spine labels. The AR Information Label will contain the author, reading level, point value, and quiz number.

With Follett's Reading Counts 526 tag in the catalog record, it is easy to search for Reading Counts books if your library's electronic system supports the 526 tag. This tag includes the reading program name, reading level, point value, and holding code (if your library is a member of a union catalog). Follett's Reading Counts cataloging also inserts the Lexile measure (if available) in a 521 tag.

SECTION 6.4: GENREFICATION SERVICES

If you are interested in organizing your library collection by genre, we can help you determine which categories you would like to use, how you would like the call numbers displayed on your labels, and how you would like genres identified in your library system. We also provide a large selection of genre labels to choose from, which visually identify a book's genre.

WHAT IS GENREFICATION?

Genrefication is organizing a library by subject and genre, more like a bookstore, to enable students to find materials more easily and improve circulation. The genres the library chooses can align with district suggestions or can support each school and its curriculum uniquely.

Follett's services are customized to meet each library's unique needs. Our genrefication services include:

- Onsite project management of the service
- Project planning and assistance with genre mapping
- Staffing, resources, and materials needed to perform the work
- Population of genre information into Follett's Destiny® Library Manager system

- Post-genrefication collection analysis using Titlewave®

WHY SHOULD I GENREFY MY LIBRARY?

Here are some common reasons why libraries flip their collections to genre organization:

- To better tie the collection to and support the school curriculum
- To bring greater visibility to high-interest titles
- To help students and staff members more easily find reading materials they seek
- To expose students and staff to a more diverse selection of authors and reading
- To make students more independent library users, which saves staff time
- To motivate students to read more
- To increase circulation and support of school curriculum, which can help secure additional funding

Genres can be unique to an individual school library or a school district. District guidelines usually maintain an overall structure but give individual libraries some flexibility to meet their unique needs.

WHAT DOES A "TYPICAL" GENREFICATION PROJECT ENTAIL?

The word "typical" is emphasized because it's important to know that genrefication projects will differ from library to library. While there can be some commonality in approach, the decisions made are unique to the individual collections and curriculum goals of each school/library.

Here is a high-level overview of what's typically involved:

- Define the purpose of why you are genrefying and use it to guide your decisions during the project.
- Decide what to genrefy (most libraries choose to begin with their fiction collection)
- Identify which genres to use (genres can be unique to an individual school library or a district)
- Plan for what materials/staffing will be needed to support patron service interruptions
- Weed the collection in advance of the project to provide an accurate view of your collection and define areas for improvement going forward. (The TitleWise Collection Analysis that is available through Titlewave® is a great way to start reviewing your collection for content that no longer provides value).
- Map all the materials in your collection to the correct genre
- Decide how to indicate genre on your library shelves (such as genre labels and signage)
- Update your Titlewave® account to reflect your genre profile
- Decide how to identify genres in your library automation system (such as Follett's Destiny Library Manager solution)
- Plan and prepare the physical library space
- Plan and prepare the work of flipping the collection

GENRE LABELS AND SIGNAGE

Students and staff need to be able to find what they are looking for. It is important to clearly identify the genres on the physical materials. Common approaches include the use of genre labels, color association with genres and genre call number prefixes.

Each genre has an identifying label design that is applied on or near the spine to indicate which genre that copy is in. Some libraries choose to create their own labels and design. There are many options for labeling books: Follett Genre labels, Demco Genre labels and colored label protectors.

SECTION 7.1: DIVERSITY & SEL ANALYSIS TOOL IN TITLEWAVE®

Follett understands the importance of providing students with materials that allow them to see a reflection of themselves, as well as provide a larger window to the world around them—celebrating a better understanding of ourselves, as well as the differences that drive cultural, economic, and social innovation. To that end, we've developed a suite of integrated analysis tools to help you discover, manage and report on over 40 diversity-related topics and 16 topics covering SEL. This allows you to ensure alignment with the needs of your students and maximize the impact of your purchases against funding and content goals.

DISCOVER

Our mission is to provide tools and resources to easily discover quality, relevant content over a wide range of topics such as gender, culture, religion, family, socio-economics, age, or ability. For any given title (whether you're searching, browsing, or building a list) we identify all the relevant topics that map to that particular book. This allows you to quickly identify books that support your current needs or interests. Often times a single title may touch on several topics, so it's easy to see the "diversity footprint" of a particular title. Because most things in Titlewave® are clickable, it's easy to find even more great content covering a specific topic simply by clicking the topic name.

REVIEW

Once you've spent time carefully building your list, we provide tools to analyze the content you've selected before placing your order. This allows for smarter purchasing decisions with a detailed breakdown of your list by important characteristics (fiction vs. nonfiction, classification, age, interest and reading levels, etc.) to help you quickly assess and ensure alignment with your collection goals.

ASSESS

TitleWise, our powerful collection analysis tool, will help you quickly diagnose your library's strengths and weaknesses, plan an effective weeding strategy, and make smarter purchasing decisions in the future.

A healthy collection fuels learning and student achievement. However, there is no one-size-fits-all solution. Not all students have the same needs and interests, and not all schools serve the same community. To ensure a well-rounded collection, you need insight into your materials to know what's working and why it's working (or where it's not working) then plan your goals, decisions, and actions accordingly.

The extensive, easy-to-understand dashboard is designed to help you assess the overall health of your collection. We break down your collection by important characteristics—fiction vs. nonfiction, classification, age, interest and reading levels, as well as diversity and SEL topics—to help you gain a thorough understanding of exactly what you own and which areas are thriving, as well as those that may be inadequately represented or contain old and outdated content.

While the collection overview gives you a comprehensive, bird's-eye view of your entire library, there's additional insight to be gained by examining specific areas more closely.

With Diversity and SEL, you can look closer at the specific topics covered by your collection. For each topic, you can see how many titles you have, the average age of those titles, and the balance of fiction vs. nonfiction. This allows you to assess which areas of interest are well-represented, in addition to specific topics that are covered by only a few titles.
