Dear Jefferson Families,

Valentine's Day is right around the corner. We realize treats will be coming to school, but please keep in mind that we have students on campus that are extremely allergic to nut products. Please do not send any treats that contain nuts to school with your child for classroom parties. We want to ensure all of our children are safe.

February marks an important month, Black History Month! Black History Month, or National African American History month, is an annual celebration of achievements by black Americans and a time for recognizing the central role of African Americans in U.S. history. Since 1976, every U.S. president has officially designated the month of February as Black History Month. Many other countries around the world devote a month to celebrate black history as well. Our students are diving into curriculum and primary sources to learn about the impact that countless African Americans have had on our country. Furthermore, they are participating in activities, Socratic seminars and discussions, and learning about both historic and modern day achievers. For more information and resources to discuss with your families, visit <http://www.history.com/topics/black-history/black-history-month>.

Mark your calendars for the upcoming events happening this month.

With cold and flu season in full swing, it is important to remind your children to thoroughly wash their hands multiple times during the day. Also, if your child is home ill, call the office and let us know so their absence can be excused.

Thank you for your continued support, communication, and taking the time to read the Jefferson newsletter. Feel free to contact me at any time at awooten@sjcoe.net or (209) 835-3053 with any questions, comments, or suggestions.

Sincerely,

Alyssa Wooten
